SMOKING WOODWORK ON BOAT ALARMS 500

Blaze Caused By Overheated Stack On Lord Baltimore Quickly Extinguished.

Smoking woodwork around an overheated smokestack on the second deck of the steamer Lord Baltimore caused alarm among the 500 passengers taking the trip to Betterton yesterday. Two women fainted, according to passengers, but were revived quickly by physicians.

Members of the crew soon extinguished the small blaze before it had a chance to gain headway and the excitement subsided.

Officers of the steamer said the occurrance was not an uncommon one and that no danger had existed.
